HEAVY rain last night, with plenty of thunder and lightning.

THEY came near having a fire just North of Wise's Tobacco Store. A kerosene lamp exploded and burnt some goods. Well indeed.

ALMOST A FIRE.—A store just across Bony's Bridge was the scene of an accident last Saturday which almost resulted in a fire. A kerosene lamp exploded, and, scattering its burning contents about, destroyed about $25 worth of goods before it was extinguished by the proprietor and the assistance of the passers-by.

CITY OF WILMINGTON, N. C.,
MAYOR'S OFFICE,
July 13th, 1874.

To the Citizens:

At the request of a large number of citizens, including the public officers, I have called a meeting to be held at the City Hall, to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock, to give public expression of sorrow at the death of His Excellency Tod. R. Caldwell, late Governor of the State of North Carolina.

All citizens are invited to attend.
W. P. CANADAY,
Mayor.

The relaxing power of Johnson's Liniment is truly wonderful. Cases are already numerous where bent and stiffened limbs have been limbered and straightened by it. When used for this purpose, the part should be washed and rubbed thoroughly. Apply the liniment cold, and rub it in with the hand.

A crowd of "Horse Men," and others, daily throng the stores in country and town for Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders. They understand that horses cannot be kept in good condition without them, and with them can be on a much less quantity of grain.

July—8 d6 & w1.

HON. O. H. DOCKERY and BENJ. ROBINSON, Esq., will address the people, in defense of the Republican Party at the following times and places:

July 17th, Friday—French's Creek, Bladen county.
July 18th, Saturday—Rosindale, Bladen county.
July 20th, Monday—Magnolia, Duplin county.
July 21st, Tuesday—Taylor's Bridge, Sampson county.
July 23rd, Thursday—Shoe Heel, Robeson county.
July 25th, Saturday—Whiteville, Columbus county.
July 28th, Tuesday—Beaufort, Carteret county.
July 30th, Thursday—Smithville, Brunswick county.

BACKS OUT AGAIN.—It is currently reported that Mr. Davis put on the Executive Committee of Robeson County the burden of a refusal to divide time with Col. Dockery or Capt. Robinson at Shoe Heel last Friday. Though the people of Robeson were largely attracted to that town on that day, in the hope of a joint discussion, they were disappointed, and that by Mr. Davis. Boanerges may as well give up—he is afraid. But though he may think that he will avoid enlightening the People by such wretched shifts, he is badly mistaken. Boanerges has no inclination to meet anybody on the opposite side, and no stomach for the fight.

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 13, 1874.

Hon. George Davis, Wilmington:

DEAR SIR:—It is announced that you are invited to make a political speech to the people of Duplin at Kenansville to-morrow. It is a time-honored custom of North Carolina politics that in important campaigns the representatives of both parties shall meet, divide time, and engage in joint discussion. It is the wish of the Republican party that either Col. Dockery or myself, whichever may be most pleasant to you, shall be heard at Kenansville to-morrow, with your approbation and subject to your rejoinder. And to that end I am requested to address you this note.

Although it is known that you may not be inclined to attempt the direction of the proceedings of the meeting which you are to address, it is desired, if you are willing to engage in debate, that you will signify the fact with a view to enabling and reinforcing an application to that Committee which has invited you, for a division of time, to be made with the assurance that you are not disposed to place an obstacle in the way of fair discussion. It is presumed of course the committee will consult your individual preference.

May I not hope to receive a written reply to this note by half past eleven o'clock to-day?

I have the honor to be,
Your very ob'd't serv't,
BENJ. ROBINSON.

WILMINGTON, July 13, 1874.

Capt. Benj. Robinson:

DEAR SIR:—Your note of this morning is received.
Being only an invited guest at Kenansville, I have neither authority nor inclination to direct the proceeding, and I respectfully decline to interfere with the discretion of the committee.

I beg that this answer may be considered final in reference to all invitations which I have accepted, or may hereafter accept, to address the people.
Very respectfully,
GEORGE DAVIS.

Oh—!

The difficulty has been solved at last and the afflicted public breath freer.—The Kiro Suwo has at length been unearthed on earth, unmasked, and the panicky public relieve their distressed feelings with a prolonged sigh!

The announcement in Saturday's Star that the "Kiro Suwo" was about to swallow up Judge Russell had a terrible effect upon such of us as were left here for the summer. Men, women and children, everywhere were terribly exercised about it, and the inquiry at every point, on all the street corners, and at the very church doors, "Have you heard anything more from the Kiro Suwo?" The greatest trouble being the fact that no one could locate it and whether it was a comet without a tail or a tail without a comet, no one seemed able to determine. A rush was made for the Star office, but it was denied, and there was no more news there. The houses of the editors were next assailed; none of them was engaged in reading the editorials in Saturday's Post, and could not be distributed, while the other was engaged in looking up a new word in the Chinese language, as everybody knew, it was dangerous to disturb him. Then Webster, and Walker, and Wooster were appealed to in vain; the heavens were scanned and one enterprising individual even suggested the propriety of instituting a microscopic search of the waters of the Cape Fear, for the terrible Kiro Suwo. Telegraphic dispatches were sent out in every direction, and at last the lightning brought a solution. The Japanese government (which is, by the way, a little profane at times), stated that the Kiro Suwo was a current prevalent on its own coasts, and the especial property of the Japanese government, and therefore they could not see what in the hell it had to do with Judge Russell's election.

How to Become Muscular—Some Chunks of Solid Wisdom Regarding Health.

In considering the training which a prizefighter goes through to bring him up to that splendid physical condition which fits him for the severe test of muscle and endurance in the ring, the Chicago Tribune draws a moral for the benefit of mankind generally who are seeking to cultivate their health. While with all the doctoring and the drugging and the flocking of the multitudes of men and women to the mountains and the seaside, or across the ocean, to build up their systems, these means fail, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, to produce the desired result, we find that the professional bruiser in a couple of months will transform himself into a marvel of physical perfection. "The process," says the Tribune, "never fails. The trainer of the prize fighters knows more than the doctors. His patient eats mutton and beef without seasoning of any sort, tea without sugar, and dry toast. He makes him get up early in the morning and go to bed early at night. He gives him plenty of exercise. He has no pharmacopia to go to, no prescriptions to write. He uses nothing but nature's medicines, and he uses them with unerring accuracy. If the bruiser has a weak spot he strengthens it. He goes over his man as a tuner goes over a piano, and brings every note into perfect tune. If he has not flesh enough he puts more on him; if he has too much he takes some off, and he performs this operation with such accuracy that he will take off the same amount every day, and upon the day of the fight will present his man weighing within an ounce of a specified number of pounds. One of the bruisers whom our reporter saw weighed four weeks ago 168 pounds; on the day of the interview he weighed 138. The other bruiser weighed the same amount four weeks ago; when our reporter saw him he weighed 135. The reduction had been made gradually, but with diurnal exactness. Now, what is good for a bruiser is good for those who are not bruisers, if they have the courage and persistence to follow the regimen, which, of course, can be regulated to suit each case. Here is a chance for the overworked to be made good as new at a very cheap rate. The clergymen need no more to go to Europe after their health. Fat men need no longer to be fat; lean men have some hopes of clothing their ribs more comfortably. They have only to pitch physic to the dogs, and take the bruisers' remedies modified to suit their cases."

There are some chunks of solid wisdom in these observations, and they are applicable not only to the male adult, but also to the growing boys, who are to make the men of the future. We have before remarked that the tendency to athletic culture is increasing among our people, and for the very reason that it is doing so the spirit deserves to be encouraged and prompted to greater development. But it is still entirely too much the fashion, when a boy pines and mopes and seems to be losing his strength, to call in a doctor and have him drenched with drugs, under the supposition that he is suffering from some specific disease that medicine is required to remove. Probably in a majority of such cases the correct remedy would be plenty of fresh air, rough exercise, and simple food. Particularly is this true of the ambitious boys, who have been working hard for a high standing and are now entering on their summer vacations. Very likely they are tired and worn down, but it is not physic that is needed to set them up again. They want to be toughened in the sunshine and the open air, by out-door life and plenty of use of their limbs. We are too much in the fashion of running to a doctor and the druggist when nature offers the speedy and permanent cure, and in this respect we can learn a valuable lesson from the heroes of the ring. —Baltimore American.

Here is something from the Rock of Beauty that is strictly local here as elsewhere. Women should read it: "A handsome leg is a rarity, we had almost said an impossibility, among American women. The reason of this is the place where they wear the garters. No French women, no English women of cultivation now-a-days wear her garters below her knees. It is ruinous to the shape of the calf. More than this, it has serious consequences of another kind. The principle vein of the leg, vena saphena-brevis, runs just beneath the skin until it nearly reaches the knee, when it sinks beneath the muscles. Now, if this is obstructed at its largest point by a tight garter, the blood is checked in its return to the heart, the feet are easily chilled, and more liable to disease; the other veins of the leg are swollen into hard, blue knots, become varicose, as it is called, and often break, forming obstinate ulcers. This is a picture which a physician sees every day. With the garter fastened above the knee, all this pain and deformity is avoided, but it is still better to wear no garter at all, and to suspend the stockings by tapes around the waist. In this case, however, a well-fitting stocking is needed."

A Washington correspondent, speaking of the witty men of the House, says that the gentleman swinging down the side aisle, dressed in a gray business suit, with a scarlet necktie, a sailow skin, dark, round, and rather sunken eyes, thin, dark hair, cut like the Prince of Wales' children, and banged across the forehead like Sadio Matilda's, is the new member from New Jersey, William Walter Phelps, of Englewood. He looks as Swinburne might, or Joaquin Miller, as a Bohemian does; yet without like a Bohemian. He's a lucky fellow; he is young, rich, educated, with a bright wife and a wonderful boy. He is director of a dozen or more railroads, and I don't know how many banks. He is liked by his colleagues, and he is in with newspaper men.

Boanerges' Warning

Boanerges, Boanerges, beware of the day When "Oliver" or "Benjamin" shall rush to the fight; State stories and gewgaws won't do for the fight. You are working to prove that the wrong is the right. The avenger, the avenger is close on thy track; You are smashed if you stand, or gone up if you back; And good blood for ten decades, be it ever so blue, Cannot save from disaster your party or you! Senate Chambers may wait thee in all thy vain dreams, Yet the rough road to honor's less smooth than it seems, And from graveyard and forest, the cry will ascend— The laborer and farmer their voices will blend, In a cry of remonstrance, that, stupid, obtuse "You deal not in reason, but descend to abuse." Return to thy "ruins" where "ages" were spent, When "for self and in self" you lived in content; For thy brief hour as savior, though worth- less you were, Was then obtest and bravest of all thy career. [Music by the Band.]

Death of Governor T. R. Caldwell.

By private telegrams received in this city, it is ascertained that Tod R. Caldwell, Governor of North Carolina, died in Hillsboro last Saturday evening. Thus another of North Carolina's noblest sons has gone. Ever since his early manhood his name has been associated with what was best in North Carolina politics. A man of the strictest integrity, he brought into his political life the principles which controlled his personal conduct, and shed a lustre upon his character which the mere politician never possesses. Fearless in discharging the duties which devolved upon him, he possessed many warm friends whose admiration for the man was heightened by those traits of excellence which adorned his character. Faithful in great things as well as small, he was ever strong in his adherence to principle. Expediency was not able to direct his sagacious judgment, and duty was his strongest incentive.

By the death of Governor Caldwell, North Carolina devolve on Lieutenant-Governor Curtis H. Brogden. And on none would he could have fallen. A man of the people, Governor Brogden has the interests of the masses at heart as much as any citizen of the State. By his untiring industry, indomitable perseverance and devotion to principle and duty, he has been advanced to the highest place in the gift of the people of this State. His life is an example for all the youth of this land. The obstacles which Governor Brogden has surmounted in the career which led him from an humble position among the toilers of the people to the gubernatorial seat, are far greater than a man of this generation will have to encounter. Let his conduct be a guide to all who desire a good recompense in this life; not the reward of places of honor and profit only, but the satisfaction which a life spent in the discharge of duty brings to the heart of all true men.

"The little sunbeam that sits and sings throughout the day at her mother's knee will be led to sit, from her mother's embrace, by the negro boy in the public schools." The above is the specimen of the Boanerges eloquence, which has so frenzied the Journal and Star with excessive admiration. Such is sophomoric statesmanship in North Carolina. Possibly it didn't occur to Davis that if the democratic party gets into power there will be no public schools, either for "the little sunbeam" or for the "negro boy." Once for all, let it be understood, the colored people denounce as an enemy to their race, and a foe to all their rights, except cemetery privileges, the columnar man who attempts to create the impression that they wish a forced association of races, either in the public schools or elsewhere. Expectant Senator Boanerges should read his bible and learn to "abide in the ship" of Truth.

Geo. Davis said at Shoe Heel that he was in favor of that part of "Sumner's legacy of hatred to the poor men of the South," known as the civil rights bill, which extends the cemetery privileges. He said a fund could be raised in the ranks of the white man's party to establish more cemeteries for the negroes. Such is christian statesmanship!

Geo. Davis wishes to ruin the labor system of the South, by putting the colored voters in the cemeteries instead of keeping them on the farms and in the Turpentine forests.

Boanerges Takes Water.

From the subjoined correspondence it will be seen that it is the policy of the Democracy to avoid all discussion in the present canvass. Whether it is from the inherent weakness of their cause, or from the inability of their orators, comes this reluctance to put their positions to the test of a canvass, we cannot say; but the fact is evident—they fear a discussion. It is impossible to say which is the most pitiable condition to be in; to have nothing to say, or not be able to say what one means.

Think of it! The mighty Boanerges goes to Shoe Heel, la Pius VII at the coronation of Napoleon, completely carried away with astonishment at finding himself there, and when a joint discussion is pressed upon him, hangs his head, and finally backs down. Behold this champion of truth! this representative of the party of virtue and intelligence! slinking from debate, as a mad dog does from water. This is only carrying out the programme which was inaugurated, when it was revolved by politicians to stifle the expressed voice of the people, and put Waddell on the Congressional track, and a ku-klux, a chief in a band of robbers and murderers, in nomination for a place on the judgment seat. They are only trying to keep the people from knowing the truth.

But they cannot succeed. The people see through and despise such pithy dodges. The conduct of Davis and the politicians who employ him is doing more than all the discussion can do. It is opening the eyes and intelligence of the people to the fact that these claps are afraid of a disclosure of the truth. Here is the correspondence:

COL. M. McRAE:
DEAR SIR:—Please peruse the enclosed letter from Mr. Geo. Davis (which you will please return), from which you will perceive that the question of division of time for discussion between Mr. Davis and Mr. Dockery has been referred to you. We presume that the party you represent is not afraid of discussion, and respectfully ask that you will grant Mr. Dockery a division. Respectfully,
R. M. NORMENT.

MR. R. M. NORMENT:
SHOE HEEL, 10th July, 1874.
COL. O. H. DOCKERY:
DEAR SIR:—You are mistaken in supposing that I have an appointment to address the people, and have no authority or inclination to direct their proceedings. I respectfully refer you to Col. M. McRae, Chairman of the Committee.

Very Respectfully,
GEO. DAVIS.

DEAR SIR:—Col. Dockery has already received an answer from the committee in regard to dividing the time of Mr. Davis with him. If Col. Dockery has an appointment as he alleges, we have no objection to his filling his appointment.

Respectfully,
M. McRAE,
Chairman of Committee.

Geo. Davis says that Sumner—the late democratic nominee for Governor of Massachusetts—let the civil rights bill as a legacy of hatred to the poor men, and the poor men's children of the South. Did Geo. Davis protest against Greeley's and Sumner's leadership of the democracy two years ago?

The Baby's Death.
There came a morning at last when the baby's felt the heart throb faintly under his fingers, but he knew it was near his last. He trembled for Elizabeth, and dared not tell her. She anticipated him. "Doctor," she said—and her voice was so passionate that it might a moment have belonged to a disembodied spirit—"I know that my darling is dying." He bowed his head meekly. Her very silence awoke him. "Is there anything you can do to ease her?" "Nothing, I do not think she suffers." "Then will you please to go away. She is mine—nobody's but mine in her life and in her death, and I want her quite to myself at the last." Sorrowfully enough he left her. Elizabeth held her child gently but firmly. She thought in that hour that she had never loved anything else, and never in this world should love anything again. She wanted to cry, but her eyes were dry and burning, and not a tear fell on the little upturned face, changing so fast to marble. She bent over and whispered something in the baby's ear—a wild and passionate prayer that it would remember her and know her again in the infinite space. A look seemed to answer her—a radiant and loving look, which she thought must be born of the near heaven. She pressed her lips in a last despairing agony of love to the little face, from which already, as she kissed it, the soul had fled. Her white wonderer had gone home.

and this which lay upon her hungry heart was stone.—Some Women's Heart.

RESOLUTIONS

Adopted in the Republican Convention of the 3rd Congressional District of North Carolina, held at Fayetteville on the 19th of May, 1874.

Resolved, 1. That we reaffirm our belief in the correctness of the principles of the republican party, as set forth in the State and National Platforms.

Resolved, 2. That the equal rights of all men before the law is a cardinal principle of the Republican party, and the rights of each and every citizen, we distinctly affirm.

Resolved, 3. That the Republican party is in favor of proper and legitimate taxation for the support of common schools and desire the education of all classes of our people, without regard to race or color.

Resolved, 4. That there is a mutual dependence of our people upon one another, and that the advancement of learning, the development of the resources of our State, and the promotion of the public good, can only be secured by an open acknowledgment of this fundamental principle regardless of race, color or previous condition.

Resolved, 5. That the conduct of the Forty-Second Congress in extracting from the Treasury of the Nation vast sums of the people's money to enrich themselves is deserving of the condemnation of every honest man, and that no conscientious constituency ought to return to Congress a man, who after having pocketed five thousand dollars of "back pay," which he had contributed by his own vote to put into his own pocket, scorned and defied the demands of the people, and voted to continue to pay himself at the rate of seventy-five dollars a day.

Resolved, 6. That the government of this country belongs to the people, the poor as well as the rich; and the ruling masses of this land will not place their destinies in the hands of haughty aristocrats who have no sympathies with them or attachment to the Union of these States.

Resolved, 7. That the direct land tax of eight-tenths of one per cent, levied by the general government during the war, and collected out of a large portion of our people, in the years 1865 and '66, ought to be refunded to those who paid said tax, and that the present member of Congress from this District, when he was so eager in obtaining "back pay" for himself, should have thought something of the "back" taxes unequally and oppressively collected out of his constituents.

Resolved, 8. That "perpetuities and monopolies are contrary to the genius of a free State, and ought not to be axiomatic, the monopoly of the navigation of the Cape Fear River, and the Fisheries and Oyster Grounds of Carteret county is in an invasion of the rights of the free citizens of this country, and the Republican party in this district pledges its efforts to abolish said monopolies when it has the power.

Resolved, 9. That the Convention endorses the nomination of Thomas H. Purnell, the Republican Candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction; and that this Convention pledges to him the hearty support of the party in this District.

Resolved, 10. Whereas, the Republican party of the 3rd Congressional District of North Carolina has been without a representative in the United States Congress for the past four years, we therefore resolve, that we have found in General Allan Rutherford, Third Auditor of the Treasury, an able, willing, and efficient worker in the interests of our people, we impose the fullest confidence in him, and the thanks of Republicans of this district are extended him through the voice of this Convention.

the amount to be deposited in the "Bank of

President of the Ladies' Benevolent Society.

This we feel justifiable in doing for the following reasons:

First—That we are young men and our expenses are light.

Second—That we have met with unexpected success in the way of patronage from all classes of our people, thereby largely increasing our sales.

Third—That we feel it the duty of some one to aid the poor, and who is better able to do it than the merchant?

We are the pioneers in this good work and hope through the continued confidence and patronage of our people to be able to carry out our good intentions.
